Galena Park ISD Celebrates School Priority Month

Houston, Texas: Galena Park ISD (GPISD) is celebrating School Priority Month throughout the month of October! School Priority Month is a campaign to promote school districts and foster relationships with elected officials and community leaders.

Recognized as a statewide event, GPISD is joining public schools across the state of Texas and opened its doors to elected officials and community leaders of every kind- from congressmen, senators, state representatives, judges, constables and ministers- to attend district events and visit with students and administrators.

During School Priority Month, Galena Park ISD is focusing on recognizing and rewarding excellence, communicating what's important in education and highlighting community engagement.

GPISD kicked off School Priority Month by inviting elected officials, community leaders, community members and the GPISD Board of Trustees to the North Shore Elementary (NSE) dedication ceremony and ribbon cutting ceremony for their new facility. The morning was filled with laughter and a time to thank everyone who contributed to the construction process.

“This is a school for our community, for our children and future generations,” North Shore Elementary principal, Esmeralda Perez, said. “We couldn't be more proud of our red, white and black, NSE ponies.”

On behalf of North Shore Elementary, GPISD would like to thank Representative Ana Hernandez, Judge Joe Stephens, Harris County Commissioner Rodney Ellis, Yuroba Harris from Gene Green's office and the GPISD Board of Trustees for attending this special day.
